

The Yadkin Killing Without Provocation-- Much Damage from the Freeze.

To the Editor of The Landmark:

John Cartwright shot Joel Caudel on the night of the 28th. He died on the 30th. Caudle was at work for Cartwright that day. After staying some time with Cartwright by the fire he started home. As he has a family he goes home at night. Cartwright went out of the door after Caudle and shot him without any words. Cartwright was full of brandy and is fussy when he has tea. Both of the men are of Yadkin. Cartwright made his escape.

The cold snap has done much damage to the crops this week. The folks will say that Grover sent it, as they say he is the cause of hard times, but they must remember that there is higher power.

Good luck to THE LANDMARK and its readers A.

A murder occurred near Richmond Hill, Yadkin county, last Thursday night. A man named Cartwright had a boy named Whitaker working for him and he became angered at him for some cause and shot him. The boy died Friday. Cartwright has fled and had not been arrested at last accounts. It is said he was drinking at the time.

One of Elkin's most popular young men will take unto himself a better half from a distant State during the balmy days of April. More particulars hereafter. B.

HOMICIDE IN YADKIN.

John Cartwright Kills Joe Caudal—Two Stories of the Affair.
Correspondence of the Observer.

YADKINVILLE, April 2. —I learn here to-day that John Cartwright shot and killed Joe Caudal near Mt. Nebo, March 28th. I can learn nothing of the particulars except that Cartwright was in his own house and his wife and Caudal were in the yard. A gentleman who was in the house with Cartwright says that Cartwright got his pistol and went out and Caudal was shot. Cartwright immediately left and his wife refuses to tell anything about the matter.

This report is denied by some and another report is that Caudal and Cartwright were in the yard and Caudal asked Cartwright for a dollar that he, Cartwright, owed Caudal, when Cartwright went back in the house to get the money, as Caudal thought. Instead, however, of getting the money, he got his pistol, went out and shot Caudal.

I am not able to say which if any of the reports are true. Cartwright has left.

— Winston Sentinel: John M. Cartwright, the man who shot and killed Joe Caudle in Yadkin county not long since and skipped to parts unknown, went back last Friday and announced that he was going to stand trial. He says he had a cause for shooting Caudle and did not want to leave when he did, but his wife persuaded him to do so.
